

Dr John Wiltshier trained in primary education at Lancaster University. He was a primary school teacher for 6 years in the UK and has taught at kindergarten, primary, junior and senior high schools in Miyagi over a period of 8 years. John also holds a masters degree in TESOL from Manchester University with a special emphasis on young learners. He has been the main speaker at the annual Sendai City Board of Education conference and guest speaker at Shokei Junior College. He currently teaches at Sendai University. John Wiltshier has been a teacher for 17 years, 11 of which have been in Japan. John has presented nationally and internationally in Europe and the U.S. He has been a guest presenter at Teachers College Columbia University- Japan, invited speaker on the ETJ Teacher Training Tour, plenary speaker at PANSIG 2007 and was a Featured-Speaker at JALT2007. He is co-author of the new edition of English Firsthand Access and Success and currently works as an Associate Professor at Miyagi University.